

Your Christmas poem is appropriate as you can all see,

As we all prepare to celebrate around a time-honored tree.

It's not the logistics which are important for us,

But, it's the love our family has for every member including Uncle Gus! Who's he??

Our tickets are bought, cold weather gear is being thought through - - -

So, needless to say, come what may, we're prepared for that too!

Elf Geoff, historian extraordinaire, will inform us of goofs and errors when he gets home, alas;

He'll have some homework to do, 'cause only he can manage this important task.

From Florida, London and Southern Cal too---

Our hearts will be warmed by our love which is like glue;

Merging our lives together carrying on a tradition begun long ago,

When Grandpa and Grandma brought us all together in the big old house on Cortez Street HO!
HO!!!HO!!!;

Their values are instilled within us, so won't it be grand to anticipate that one day in heaven we'll meet?
